Product Description

The Laiyoworm is a handmade silicone worm shaped 65mm long, designed in collaboration with Malaga fisherman Rafael, also known as "Laiyo". It has several features that make it ideal for fishing. Offering great flexibility and an irregular profile, similar to the movement of a real worm. The Laiyoworm has a circular cross-section, a thin profile that remains constant almost the entire length, and many small fins on the sides. In addition, it has a special slot for easy attachment of an auxiliary hook on the tail (thief). This is important because with a hook on the back side, we can more easily catch fish that are difficult to bite and hold the bait.

Presentation

The package contains 12 pieces.

Usage Tips

It is recommended to use heads with a thin hook and a weight of up to 2g. You can also use heavier weights, up to 3g, depending on your needs. You can cut the Laiyoworm to the length you want without losing its flexibility and movement.

Important

To get the most out of the Laiyoworm, place an auxiliary hook on the tail using the special slot.
